“ I don't have many who I call family, but John and Irene are it. John always welcomed me back, no matter how long I got lost in the world. He was my only connection to my mothers past and my family history. I never felt judged. More people should be like John.

“ Aggravation... John and Irene were our neighbors back in the late 70's. Two or three times a week we would all gather around the table and play aggravation for hours. Me,.my mother, my sister, brother- in- law ,John and Irene we all would throw a quarter in the pot and start the game. It was some good times and good memories. Save a seat for me John, I'll bring my bag of quarters. You will be missed.
